

Decision Before Skill - Safety and Stewardship in the Alaska Backcountry (Sunday May 3rd)

Event Details

Presented on behalf of the Recreational Aviation Foundation, this session explores how pilot decision-making, mentorship, and backcountry etiquette help support safe operations and maintain the trust that allows continued access to remote airstrips and landing areas in the backcountry. Topics will include common human-factor traps, risk patterns seen in Alaska flying, and the role individual pilots play in representing aviation when operating on shared public lands.

This event is located on the Alaska State Fairgrounds, Palmer AK. This seminar is located in the Hoskins Exhibits Hall, marked as building #17 on the attached fairgrounds map. It is a light green building with white trim.

This seminar is scheduled for 1500 - 1550 and will earn attendees 1 hr of Master Airport Operations WINGS credit.
