

Flying Low and Fast - Is It Safe And Is It Legal?

Some pilots know that Jeff Edwards is opposed to the practice of low-altitude flying for thrill purposes. This includes buzzing airports, houses, friends, etc. Some debated that this practice is “perfectly safe.” So let’s start the discussion there. Is low altitude flying, often called “maneuvering flight” by the NTSB, or sometimes called “buzzing,” perfectly safe? If you think the practice is legal and safe – change my mind.
