

Tennessee FAA Safety Team presents:

The Art of Mountain Flying

There are many valid reasons for operating in the vicinity of mountainous terrain. These include personal enjoyment, aerial photography, flight training, fire patrol, law enforcement, business travel, search-and-rescue, etc.

Regardless of your motivation for flying in the mountains, it is necessary to develop good judgement and proper techniques.

The following facets of mountain flying will be discussed:

8:30 – 8:50	Minimum Knowledge
/ Must Know Information
9:00 – 9:50	Knowledge of
Mountain Weather / Mountain Flying
10:00 – 10:50	Aircraft Performance /
Route Planning
11:00 – 12:00	Real World Stories
(Guest Speakers)
12:00 – 1:00	Lunch
1:00 – 1:50	Survival Techniques
2:00 – 3:00	Aircraft Accidents

Directions: From I-75, take exit 9 for TN-317 E / Apison Pike towards Collegedale. Stay on TN-317 E for approximately 6 miles and Collegedale Airport will be on your left. The seminar will be held in the upstairs meeting room.
