

Rules & Regulations for Building & Flying Experimental Aircraft

Have you ever thought about building or buying one of these great little planes? Are you building one now? Or, maybe you have been flying one for years. Sorting out all the rules, regulations and paperwork can be a challenge. Have you ever wondered what you might be missing?

David Hayes, one of our inspectors who works daily with local pilots building and flying experimental aircraft, will sort it all out, explain the process and answer your questions
