Background:

The General Aviation Joint Steering Committee (GAJSC) and the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) have determined that a significant number of general aviation fatalities could be avoided if pilots were to conduct more thorough preflight inspections of aircraft that have just been returned to service. In-flight emergencies have been the direct result of maintenance personnel who have serviced or installed systems incorrectly.

Leaning Points:

- Learn all you can about the maintenance that was performed.
- Don't assume the part(s) replaced are the only parts removed.
- Pay attention to trim positions. Check for unimpeded flight control surface deflections. Make sure they move in the correct directions!
- Make sure all inspection panels are secure and their fasteners are tight.
- Check fuel tank for water, sediment, and correct fuel grade.

Lead Representative Stephen Bateman

- After an oil change, always check the engine oil level to ensure it has the correct amount of oil.
- Always check your logbook and paperwork prior to flight to ensure records have been entered correctly.
- If you see a warning tag/sign on the aircraft, or on the sign-out or status board, DO NOT FLY THE AIRCRAFT! Check with the maintenance facility prior to taking the aircraft.
- Know your plane. Participate in, or observe your mechanic perform, an annual or 100 hour inspection.
