

General Aviation Safety Culture

- We are all subject to cultural influences.
- Teachers, mentors, family, colleagues, and community all shape the way we see the world and conduct our lives.
- Robust safety cultures are key to consistently safe flight operations.
- Safety culture leads people to choose to work safely and do the right things even when no one is watching.

Sign up by clicking the link below. On the web “splash” page that opens, enter your name and email address. Use the email address for your WINGS account so you receive proper credit.
