

ASCEND 2026 - Student Personalities and What to Do About Them

We've all heard about the difficulties dealing with a "Type A" student. But what about the other types? What are they? This session will present not only the four student personality types, but also what motivates them, and how the instructor can adjust their teaching style to best communicate with and teach the student. This presentation is based upon the DiSC personality assessment. It is an invaluable tool for instructors, enhancing instructor-student communications and helping integrate safety messaging that aligns with the learner's personality.
