

AOPA Air Safety Institute Safety Seminar - The State of Aviation Safety

Join AOPA Air Safety Institute Senior Vice President Mike Ginter, CNN Aviation Correspondent Pete Munteen, AOPA President and CEO Darren Pleasance, along with representatives from the NTSB, NATCA, and other national media personalities, for a discussion on the growing public concern about aviation safety in light of recent high-profile incidents—and why long-term data still shows that flying is safer than ever. This panel brings together industry experts to explore that paradox—examining recent events, systemic vulnerabilities, and how pilots, regulators, and technology all play a role in ensuring safety continues to improve.

There is no registration for this event. We have plenty of seating.
