

FAA Safety Team presents:

FAASTeam Flight Instructor Forum Open to All Pilots

The aerodynamic stalls that kill us occur unintentionally at low altitude. How many of you have ever had a student “freeze” on the controls during stall instruction at altitude? They will pull back on the stick or yoke and won’t let go!

Teaching them proper technique and insisting on a thorough understanding of stalls will go a long way to avoid this panic state from happening after we kick them out of the nest.

We teach our students how to conduct full stalls and prompt recovery procedures so they have a thorough understanding of stall aerodynamics. With this added knowledge and skill, pilots will be more prepared to avoid a loss of control while maneuvering for an approach, landing, takeoff, or go-around. It’s in their “wheel house” permanently if you have done your job as a CFI. Attend this informative CFI workshop and share your experiences and knowledge. Invite a fellow CFI to come with you.

Flight Instructors, Ground Instructors, Designated Pilot Examiners, and Instructors in training are welcome and encouraged to attend. Click the link below and register TODAY.
