

FAA Safety Team and the Boston FSDO presents:

Medical Certificate Changes are Coming

Effective May 1st, the third class certification requirements will have new options available. Dr. James Ross, an FAA AME, will address what those options are and what is needed to obtain third class medical certification.

Dr. Ross will address your medical related questions regarding all classes of medical. His extensive knowledge and experience is a valuable resource to the pilots in our area. Bring your questions and hear first hand what some of the requirements are for a special issuance medical certification.

If you are an active pilot and want to learn about the changes taking place in the medical certification area then this is a seminar you don't want to miss!
