

Greater Chicago FSDO, FAASTeam presents:

CEPA IMC Club - Boston Bait and Switch with ORD tower and C90 Controllers

We welcome Ryan Schile and Andrew Rice, Certified Professional Controllers (CPC) from O'Hare towers. Last year, on March 1st, the two of them saved a few hundred people from a very bad day, separating an ERJ-145 from a B737-8 who got within 0.23 nm from each other. This won them the coveted President's Award, aka Archie Award, at the Archie League Medal of Safety Awards banquet. We celebrate their getting it right, and in the words of NATCA president, Paul Rinaldi, not getting it wrong. And, we welcome Ryan Jaros, a C90 TRACON controller, to be our the man in the middle. Tonight, we discuss another Class Bravo busy airport where a Mooney is landing on a compassion flight. Mixing in with the turbine traffic isn't easy for pilots or controllers. Let's figure out this pilot's difficult approach and decision. With our two tower controllers and a TRACON (and former MIA tower) controller, this should be a fascinating discussion!

IMC Club: The IMC Club's purpose is to promote instrument flying, proficiency, and safety. The intent is to create a community of pilots willing to share their perspective, provide recognition, foster communications, promote safety, and build proficiency in instrument flying. An IFR rating is not needed to participate in this excellent forum
