

An evening with a NTSB Air Safety Investigator

In cooperation with Designated Examiner Jason Blair, Western Michigan University will host John Brannen from the NTSB. John is a senior Air Safety Investigator from the Denver office and promises to bring an interesting presentation which includes the history of the NTSB, aviation and regional investigations, the NTSB as a career and a series of accident case studies with a discussion on each. This is a rare opportunity to talk directly with an individual from the NTSB in an educational environment. For anyone who has an interest in aviation safety at any level, or is considering a career with the NTSB, this presentation is not to be missed.

Directions: Held in the Academic Education Center room 1207 (first building south of the old control tower)
