

Indiana FAAS Team presents:

FREE Proficient Pilot Seminar - Aircraft Airworthiness for Pilots

You are invited to bring your family and friends out to our next safety seminar. This will be the first installment of a two part series on aircraft airworthiness considerations. This first installment of the series will be focused on aircraft airworthiness considerations as it pertains to pilots. For example, while completing your preflight inspection, you notice the red nav light is inop. How do you determine whether or not it is legal to go ahead and fly, or if you need to have it repaired first, marked inop, etc. For our second installment of this two part series on July 6th, we'll focus more on aircraft airworthiness considerations for the owner/operator - which entails a good bit more detail about the responsibilities associated with owning and managing an aircraft. We hope to see you here!!

Directions: This free pilot safety seminar will be hosted and presented by Sweet Aviation in the main terminal building at the Smith Field Airport in Fort Wayne, Indiana.
