

Pro Tips for CFIs and Students

Whether You teach students how to recognize and recover from a stall you will learn more about them through this informative webinar. Please join us as Brian talks with us about aerodynamic stalls. Our guest speaker, Brian Sagi teaches in the San Diego area and he is not only a Certified Flight Instructor (CFI) but also holds an ATP, A&P, and Remote Control Pilot Certificate with extensive flight experience.

In FAA check rides at all levels pilots are required to demonstrate stalls and recovers. Many pilots don't like to perform stalls. Today we will learn about stalls, what they are, what causes them, and how to know when we are approaching a stall. We will learn about real-world inadvertent stalls and their role in aviation accidents. Lastly, we will discuss tips for CFIs teaching stalls, and exercises that all can perform to become more comfortable with aerodynamic stalls
