

Bush Pilot Survival Medicine

Surviving a forced landing in a hostile environment is something that anyone who flies across remote terrain should consider as they preflight for that flight. We will discuss survival medicine, providing a framework for dealing with some medical scenarios that a pilot may experience. Factors which increase chances of survival after a forced landing; Psychological factors facing those surviving a downed aircraft; Approaches to handling the unconscious passenger; Improvisation in dealing with major trauma

There is a fee for this event, please see the attached flyer for details.

Directions: This seminar will be located in the Madden's Town Hall
