

The Ag Drone Podcast - Professional Organizations

UAS Part 137 operators are entering the professional aerial application space faster than ever. There are decades of hard-earned crewed ag aviation experience that can be accessed—especially from the National Agricultural Aviation Association (NAAA)—can dramatically shorten the learning curve on safety, decision-making, regulatory navigation, and operational excellence.

Andrew Moore, CEO of the National Agricultural Aviation Association (NAAA). With more than 25 years serving the ag aviation industry (starting in 1997 as Director of Legislative & Regulatory Affairs), Andrew has led NAAA's efforts in safety advocacy, regulatory affairs, and support for both manned and emerging uncrewed aerial application professionals.
