

Combat Fatigue, a University of North Dakota Aviation Safety Seminar

As our energy levels decrease because of our overstressed lifestyles, many people look for a quick fix to combat fatigue. Dr. Warren Jensen will discuss fatigue management techniques.

Also, learn how current and future flight data monitoring research is changing how general aviation looks at operational safety.

Directions: From I-29 exit 140 onto Demers Ave. Turn right onto Demers Ave. At the first stoplight, turn left onto North 42nd Street. Take the first right onto University Ave., then take the first right onto Campus Road. Clifford Hall is on the right. The seminar is located in room 210. Parking meters are available for those without a UND parking permit.
