

ATC and You - Inflight Emergencies

When was the last time you planned for the unexpected? This class serves as recurrent training for pilots so that if an emergency happens, you are more likely to have a successful outcome. Come learn how to help us help you, as controllers can be the difference between success and failure. This presentation will be given by controllers from Centers, TRACONS, and Towers. There will be time for Q&A.

Directions: We are located cross the road from the Control Tower.
