

Human Factors and WINGS

In this interactive seminar we'll discuss how leveraging our understanding of human factors improves our performance, communication, teamwork, situational awareness, and decision making. We'll also focus on how threat and error management recognizes and accommodates human factors strengths and weaknesses as well as how human factors impacts aircraft and systems design and automation. Finally, we'll discuss Pilot Proficiency through WINGS.

The event is a closed event open only to members of Charleston Southern University School of Aeronautics, and for further information to contact FAAS Team Rep. Chris Peterson at (843) 224-1074

Event will be on the 2nd Floor.
