

Completion Credit Only - NASA's Altitude Chamber

Physiological training is a 1-Day course designed to familiarize pilots and flight crews with the physiological stresses of high altitude flight.

Directions: This posting is ONLY for people that have completed NASA's Altitude Chamber and wish to request WINGS credit

Event Details

Tue, Sep 25, 2012 - 7:30 am

NASA

Please see our website to register
<https://www.flyhpa.com/services/training/altitude-chamber/>
Houston, TX 77059

Contact: Brandon Ray or Hank Gibson
(866) 227-8149
info@flyhpa.com

Select #: SW0946528
FPM LANCE LITTLE

A message from the National FAASTeam Manager

Over 10,150 AMTs earned an AMT Award last year. Will you, this year?
Sign up for the FAA's safety services at www.FAASafety.gov!

The FAA Safety Team (FAASTeam) is committed to providing equal access to this meeting/event for all participants. If you need alternative formats or services because of a disability, please communicate your request as soon as possible with the person in the "Contact Information" area of the meeting/event notice. Note that two weeks is usually required to arrange services.