Insurance Issues related to Aviation Safety

Safety has always been a part of the aviation insurance market. As an example most insurance companies promote safety through their programs stressing recurrent training. Many companies have programs which offer the best rates and the broadest coverages to pilots who take annual recurrent training. With respect to the upgrade from SEL to MEL aircraft we will discuss the safety issues therein and the insurance issues as well. Safety issues are a part of everything aviation insurance companies do from underwriting to claims. Issues discussed will relate to rental as well as ownership issues.
