

San Antonio FAAS Team presents:

Topic-of-the-Month Owner-Mechanic Relations

TODAY IS THE DAY! Sign Up and Join the Conversation

When it comes to your airplane, is your Mechanic kinda like your doctor. Do you share your most intimate airplane aches and pains with them?

After all, the Mechanic is the guy who puts on a pair of gloves and looks up the tail pipe. It doesn't get more intimate than that!!

But seriously, what is your relationship with your Mechanic? More important, what should be the relationship between the Owner and the Mechanic?

I'm an Airplane Owner myself, and for this Topic of the Month, I enlisted my own Mechanic to be our guest speaker. That's right, I trust my Mechanic implicitly, and I am absolutely positive that the words of wisdom he has imparted to me over the years can be beneficial to all of you! Hopefully, this will be the beginning of a great relationship between you and your Mechanic. You are invited to a Zoom meeting.

When: May 19, 2021 19:00 Central Time (US and Canada)

Directions: The General Aviation Joint Steering Committee (GAJSC) is a public-private partnership working to improve general aviation safety. The GAJSC uses a data-driven, consensus-based approach to analyze aviation safety data and develop risk reduction efforts.

The GAJSC selects subjects based on an analysis of accident and incident data that shows a commonality of risks nationally. The GAJSC's goal is to reduce the GA fatal accident rate.

These subjects are presented as the Topic-of-the-Month. Join us!!!
