REEVES n/a

See actual in-flight footage demonstrating how Avidyne IFD GPS navigators, Vantage Displays, and autopilots are used during real-world IFR operations. Learn practical techniques that reduce workload, improve situational awareness, and help you master today's integrated avionics.

Gary "GPS" (Guy in the Pink Shirt) Reeves, the 2019 FAA National Flight Instructor of the Year, is one of the world's most experienced IFR avionics instructors. Through his Mastering the Modern IFR Cockpit™ programs, he helps government agencies, Part 135 operators, corporate flight departments, military units, and private airplane and helicopter owners safely master today's integrated avionics for greater safety, standardization, and real-world IFR proficiency.

This is a free live class (NOT ONLINE) included with admission to EAA AirVenture. For info on purchasing tickets that support the non-profit EAA, please visit:
