

Hangar Talk Saturdays (KVNY) - You Do Not Know What You Do Not Know - Part 21

Event Details

What aviation hazards have you never considered simply because you did not know they existed? Some of the most valuable lessons in aviation come from unexpected situations, overlooked details, and experiences that challenge what pilots believe they already know.

Join FAASTeam Representative Richard Mend for another installment of his popular aviation safety discussion series, You Do Not Know What You Do Not Know. Drawing upon decades of flying and instructional experience, Richard will explore lesser-known aviation hazards, common misconceptions, operational surprises, and practical lessons that can help pilots recognize risks before they become accidents. This presentation encourages pilots of all experience levels to question assumptions, expand their knowledge, and strengthen their aeronautical decision making.
