

Surviving a Forced Landing with Jason Miller

Join CFI Jason Miller and Howard Donner for an essential safety event drawing on decades of real-world back country flying and search-and-rescue leadership experience. In this engaging session, they'll share practical, hard-earned insights on what every pilot should know to survive a forced landing—from pre-flight planning and in-flight decision-making to post-landing survival priorities. Whether you fly over rugged terrain or populated areas, you'll gain the mindset, preparation strategies, and critical actions that can make all the difference when it matters most. This event will last approximately 1.0 hours.
