Event Details

When's the last time you practiced your emergency procedures? Do you have a flow? Where's the best place to land? Are you prepared to spend several nights waiting for rescue? What if you are injured? How are you going to signal search and rescue?

Fernando Molina and fellow pilot were returning from a airplane camp-out when they experienced engine failure and forced with an emergency landing in the remote Utah wilderness and were faced with those very questions and more..

Come hear their story and learn from their experience.
