

FAASTeam presents:

Rediscovering Your Passion for Training

Maintaining currency through flight training used to be fun and something to look forward to. It was a chance to learn new techniques and procedures, re-learn things forgotten and hone your skills as an airman. Training made you feel confident, challenged, and ready to tackle whatever abnormalities came your way.

ProFlight's goal is to put the enjoyment back in training, creating comprehensive and effective training programs. Training conducted in a non-threatening environment, with powerful tools made possible through modern technology, makes currency training valuable and something to look forward to.

A few of the topics that will be covered are: Why the current training model is broken (i.e. Air France, Colgan Air, and Asiana The future – constant currency and distance learning Recent changes in Part 142 training requirements re: stalls and recovery (Colgan Air Fallout) Owner pilot time restraints – Distance learning is the answer Examples of challenging training experiences
