

FAASTeam presents:

Destination: Las Vegas

Have you flown yourself to Las Vegas yet? For many Bay Area pilots, this is a big milestone in their aviation career. A relatively longer flight, that forces you to carefully select route, altitude, and a plan for arriving in the busy Las Vegas Class B airspace. After you've done it once, it's an easy favorite weekend getaway destination from then on. You know you've been thinking about it. Now's the time to take the next step....listening to other pilots talk about it. This installment in our Destination series highlights route planning, the various possibilities for crossing the Sierras, emergency preparedness, weather considerations, the pros and cons of each Las Vegas area airport, as well as what to do once you reach your destination. Unlock a great new destination for you and your friends by joining us for this fun and informative presentation. Learn the best way to remove all the gamble from your flight, and save it for the roulette tables. This seminar is co-presented by Dan Dyer and Gurnish Anand, who will lead the upcoming FlyOutGroup (FOG) Viva Las Vegas Weekend, October 24-26. More information will be available about the trip, including how to participate. Gurnish Anand earned his Private Pilot certificate in 2013. Since then he has become the proud owner of a Cessna 172S and is currently learning aerobatics. When he isn't flying airplanes, Gurnish is a performance engineer for a Bay Area IT company. Dan Dyer is Chief Pilot of San Carlos Flight Center and has been instructing for 11 years, first in helicopter and now in airplanes. He has almost 4,000 flight hours and is the Bay Area's local expert in crosswind landing instruction. He regularly speaks on advanced ground school topics, and was one of the founders of the Bay Area FlyOutGroup - a social club of over 350 pilots that meet for lunches, dinners, and other fun aerial adventures. Find out more about Dan at www.sancarlosflight.com or contact him at dan@sancarlosflight.com. San Carlos Flight Center was voted Best Flight School in the US in the 2013 AOPA Flight Training Excellence Awards. We are committed to promoting safety in general aviation through our evening safety seminar programs.
