

FAASTeam presents:

Switching to ICAO Flight Planning (FAA Form 7233-4)

The FAA has announced a mandatory transition to the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) Flight Plan Form 7233-4 effective the first half of 2017. The new ICAO Flight Plan form is already required to obtain certain types of in-flight ATC services and routing. Once in service, it will be used for all IFR and VFR flight planning, replacing the domestic flight plan form we have used for decades.

Join Flight Instructor Brian Eliot for a seminar that provides crucial understanding of how to complete the many new data fields in Form 7233-4. He will describe the background leading up to the change and what pilot services are based on information provided in the flight plan. He will also present typical airplane avionics configurations and how to enter the proper values into the navigation and surveillance fields in the new form.

Finally, Brian will briefly review what automation the flight planning service providers are making available to pilots to assist them through this transition.

There will be plenty of time for questions and answers at the end.
