

Changes effective January 6, 2012

Thank you for bringing to our attention the following problems, which have now been addressed and fixed.

1. Printing an AMT Award certificate for a 2010 AMT award lists the 2011 Core activity that was completed? Same with a 2009 award. This appears to occur for anyone that prints a "past" award and has completed a more recent core course. This has been corrected and the routine now prints the proper information.
2. Correct the Seminar display to show "Waiting for FPM Approval" or "Waiting for RFM Approval" as appropriate for seminars. In some cases, this was not working properly; it works properly now.
3. Revise the AMT Employer Report to add a column in the report and in the export, that shows the "Employment Type."

For your information, we are continuing to work on additional AMT Awards functionality, and plan to launch those improvements and "bug" fixes near the end of January.
